Profile

Andreea began her career in Physical Therapy when she started working for Illinois Bone and Joint Institute in 2016 as a Rehab Tech in Lincolnwood, while studying at Loyola University and Oakton Community College. Her love for physical therapy continued to grow after joining the IBJI Rehab team, which inspired her to pursue her PTA degree. Andreea is very passionate about building a trusting relationship with her patients in order to push them towards success! She loves working with various diagnoses and patient populations, but enjoys treating hips and knees the most. Her goal is to continue developing new skills in order to provide the best possible care to everyone she treats.

Prior to returning back to IBJI as a Licensed PTA, Andreea developed skills in the inpatient hospital setting, which allows her to have a broader understanding and perspective when treating post-op patients.

Andreea was born and raised in Chicago, is a Cubs fan, and has been a huge animal lover since childhood. Outside of work, she enjoys spending time with her big family, getting together with friends, living an active lifestyle, and exploring new places!
