Profile

Kenny was born and raised in Park Ridge, IL. He attended high school at Maine South and later went to Illinois State University to study Kinesiology. His hobbies and interests include Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu, everything Chicago Bears and Bulls, dogs, and spending quality time with friends and family.

He was a patient in 2015 due to an ankle fracture and became a rehabilitation technician while he was a physical therapy student. He attended physical therapy school at Rosalind Franklin in North Chicago, IL and graduated in June, 2018.

Kenny has clinical experience in the outpatient orthopedic setting as well as the inpatient rehabilitation setting. He also spent time in St. Lucia to learn more about international physical therapy and give some of his time to cultures outside the US. Aside from the human body, Kenny's main interest is individual patient success. His priority is to make therapy challenging, fun, practical and rewarding for his patients.
