Profile

Alyssa Romano graduated from Carroll University as a Physical Therapist with her Doctorate degree. She enjoys treating a variety of patient populations and diagnoses, with an interest in sports medicine and the spine. Growing up, she played softball, volleyball, and basketball, and personally experienced physical therapy through injury, which has allowed her to relate to the process of rehabilitation. Outside of work, she enjoys spending time with family and friends, reading, exercising, and different outdoor activities.

Education

- Bachelor of Science, Exercise Science, Carroll University
