Profile

Cassi Huser, PT, DPT has been a part of the IBJI team since 2005. Cassi originally worked at IBJI Rehabilitation in Glenview and transitioned to Libertyville upon graduation from Northwestern University Physical Therapy School. Cassi enjoys having the opportunity to treat a variety of orthopedic and neurological diagnoses, as well as the chance to work with patients of all ages. Cassi enjoys working with the many programs that IBJI has to offer as well as volunteer at races or company sponsored events. Cassi also took over the Assistant Facility Manager position for the Libertyville location in 2018 and Facility Manager position in 2019.

Cassi played competitive-level rugby in college, advancing to nationals her final year, and she also enjoyed participating in intramural sports. She was a three-sport athlete in high school, with a history of personal physical rehabilitation experiences at IBJI. This has allowed her to be on both the giving and receiving ends of physical therapy and led her down the career path to become a physical therapist. She is a member of the American Physical Therapy Association (APTA) and enjoys learning about orthopedic and sports physical therapy at conferences and seminars.

Cassi resides in the suburbs with her husband and in her spare time takes every opportunity possible to travel and try new restaurants.
